A Secession Ordinance—Extra.

Mr. Felix R. McManus has in his possession an "extra" printed by the Charleston (S. C.) Mercury on the 20th of December, 1860. This extra is printed in large type—those used at the top and bottom being strikingly large—and the whole is preserved in a gilt frame, whose sides measure about 26 inches and the ends about half said length. The extra and frame, although nearly 39 years old, are well preserved.

The following is the important information this extra contained:

CHARLESTON
MERCURY
EXTRA:

Passed unanimously at 1.15 o'clock, P. M., December 20th, 1860.

An Ordinance

To dissolve the Union between the State of South Carolina and other States united with her under the compact entitled "The Constitution of the United States of America."

We, the People of the State of South Carolina, in convention assembled, do declare and ordain, and it is hereby declared and ordained,

That the ordinance adopted by us in Convention, on the twenty-third day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty-eight, whereby the Constitution of the United States of America was ratified, and also, all Acts and parts of Acts of the General Assembly of this State, ratifying amendments of the said Constitution, are hereby repealed; and that the union now subsisting between South Carolina and other States, under the name of "The United States of America," is hereby dissolved.

THE UNION IS DISSOLVED!

When this ordinance was passed thousands of hearts burned with patriotic fire and showed their readiness to make good its declarations with money, arms, and if necessary, the shedding of their blood. The morning of their struggle was a grand one, hope unfolded its pinions and soared high into the realms of faith, but the evening came with its bloody plains, swept and torn by the rush and rain of the war-storm, and the night of gaunt hunger and defeat descended, wrapping all in gloom and disaster. It was a bitter moment to the vanquished survivors, but it was made more humiliating by the terms dictated as a condition of State rehabilitation.

There are those who say the Southern States could have preferred the presence of a hostile soldiery to accepting State rehabilitation coupled with the XVth amendment, but those who make this an excuse of their endorsement of that amendment have never considered the evils that would have flowed from the presence of such a soldiery mixing with and stirring up the hostile sentiment of one-third of the Southern population, just freed from bondage. Crops were neglected, and war wanted the people in the face while the soldiers were present. The Southern people believed they were able to get along with one of these unfriendly forces, but the withdrawal of the other. Besides, the Congress that held that it possessed the power to make the XVth amendment a condition would have felt no hesitation in declaring that the acts of said States were not essential to make that amendment valid.

But that good sometimes hovers over and blossoms upon disaster is found in the fact that the South is being thickly dotted with cotton factories, while those in the East, which section was the nursery of the sentiments that brought on the war, are threatened with abandonment. When Federal cannon and musketry shot to death the ordinances of secession, they awoke the slumbering energies and reserve forces of a people who, despite their contests with poverty and a harassing social evil, are lifting the South up to a plain of prosperity that makes her a proud victor in industrial advancement. We hope she is only entering the vestibule of her prosperity.

It is stated that the American plan of mediation has been unanimously adopted by the Peace Congress now in session at The Hague. This plan provides in brief that in the event of a difference arising between two powers, each shall choose another power to act as its second. The powers thus selected shall do all they can to reconcile the opponents. These second powers shall, even when war has broken out, continue their efforts with a view of ending hostilities as soon as possible.

The finding of baby Marion, the 20-month old child of Arthur W. Clarke, of New York city, on June 1st, after a search of eleven days, was a great joy to the child's parents and a gratification to the motherhood of the land who had heard of her abduction. On the 21st of May the nurse employed by Mr. Clarke, who went under the name of Carrie Jones and who had been with the family but a week, took the baby in a perambulator for an airing in Central Park. After reaching the park the nurse took the baby from the baby carriage, which she left standing near some bushes, and asked the matron of the ladies' room if she would watch it while she went and looked at the bears.

From some cause Mr. Clarke had a feeling that all was not right, and after mentioning the subject to his wife he concluded to go to the park. He found the empty baby carriage, and while looking at it the matron of the ladies' room appeared and told him of the nurse's request. Mrs. Clarke went back to his home and was there met by a boy who presented him with a note in which the writer said that the child was safe, but if the matter was given to the police or the newspapers he should never again see her alive. It was signed "Three". Certain punctuation marks led those who examined the note to believe it was written by a printer.

The police took hold of the case as did also the newspapers and it was owing to her picture in a newspaper that baby Marion was recovered. A Miss Carey, in charge of a mission in the Ramapo Mountains, recognized it in the arms of Mrs. Jennie Wilson, and she hastily drove to the sheriff and told him where the child was, which led to the arrest of the woman and the restoration of the child to its parents. Carrie Jones was afterwards found in New Jersey. As Mr. Clarke is a poor man and was not able to offer much money for the recovery of his child, and $3000 was offered by two of the sensational papers of that city, there is a bit of suspicion that the child was abducted to furnish the food on which a certain class of journals thrive.

Senator Hanna permitted without much opposition those who were unfriendly to him to organize the Ohio gubernatorial convention, and also to take charge of the committee on credentials and settle the issue between contesting delegations, but when it came to naming the candidate for Governor Hanna's man carried off the cake. It is whispered that President McKinley's order taking out of the civil service list 4000 appointments was issued to fit in with the Ohio convention, so that Hanna could make good use of it. At least 100 of the 4000 appointments will go to Hanna, and wish that number to his credit it would be strange indeed if he failed to exert a great influence on the membership of that convention. The convention declared against trusts.

The Postoffice Department is opposed to postmasters absenting themselves from their offices, leaving clerks in charge. A general order has been issued by Postmaster-General Smith to the effect that postmasters at Presidential postoffices are required to give their personal attention to the business of their office and must not be absent themselves therefrom for a longer period than one or two days without written authority from the department. A violation of this order will be deemed sufficient cause for removal.

Col. Randall, who has been paying off the Cuban soldiers, discovered that the officers were charging the soldiers $5.00 each for identification. These officers must have been rubbing up against "politications of influence" with those in control of city governments. Col. Randall put a stop to this practice as soon as he found it out, but the other class are not so easily suppressed.

Spain has sold to Germany the Caroline, Marianne and Palao Islands. The Carolines contain 346 square miles and 26,000 inhabitants; the Palao 346 square miles and 10,000 inhabitants, and the Marianne 200 square miles and 9,000 inhabitants. From the latter group must be deducted Guam, which was ceded to the United States by the treaty of Paris.

A letter from Richmond says: Some of Mr. Martin's friends are advocating the convention movement. They say that inasmuch as the fight has opened up unusually early, it would be well to have it end as soon as possible, in order that other issues may be considered in the election of members of the legislature.

Ingalls Redivivus.

The New York Journal prints a letter from Hon. John J. Ingalls, formerly United States Senator from Kansas, in which the following remarkable statement is made: "The Bible and the hymn book are well enough, but what the African race needs is another Toussaint L'Ouverture, with the blood-stained banner of revolution and the torch and sword." These were probably the sentiments of the late John Brown, also of Kansas, although he was an impetuous sort of incendiary and not a leader himself. Why, however, should Mr. Ingalls want to apply the "torch and sword" to his white fellow-citizens; a man ought to be able to be a "statesman out of a job" without inciting an inferior race to murder and arson. The "torch and sword" will never be a remedy for lynching, nor will the negro ever get in that way what Mr. Ingalls calls "his rights." It may be well for gentlemen who are far removed from the scene of strife to suggest a revolution by the negroes, for whatever may happen they at least will not suffer. There is no necessity, however, for the "torch or sword" in remedying the wrongs of any class or race in this country, despite the views of some "advanced" women in Boston and ex-Senator Ingalls. If the negro is suffering from evils which are not directly traceable to his own crimes, he can trust to the enlightened public opinion of the South to protect him. We have enough of the "torch and sword" in the Philippines without starting a revolution at home, of which incendiaryism and massacre are to be the principal features. Mr. Ingalls' suggestion will not meet with popular approval and he should reconsider it.

Glorious News

Comes from Dr. B. B. Cargile, of Washita, I. T. He writes: "Four bottles of Electric Bitters has cured Mrs. Brewer of scrofula, which had caused her great suffering for years. Terrible sores would break out on her head and face, and the best doctors could give no help, but her cure is complete and her health is excellent." This shows what thousands have proved—that Electric Bitters is the best blood purifier known. It's the supreme remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, alopecia, boils and running sores. It stimulates liver, kidneys and bowels, expels poisons, helps digestion, builds up the strength. Sold by C. W. Blencoe, druggist, Guarantees.

Twenty Dreyfus Victims and Heroes.—The New York World says:

Here are some of the victims of the Dreyfus crusade, which has kept France in a ferment for four years:

General De Boisdeffre, chief of the general staff, self-exiled from Paris. Generals Mercier, Pellieux, Gonse, Lanth, Gribelin, Ravary, Ormeschville—in disgrace.

Five Ministers of War.—Messrs. Billot, Cavaignac, Zurlinden, Chanoine and De Freycinet—in turn driven out of the Ministry.

Count Esterhazy, self-confessed forger of evidence against Dreyfus, expelled from Legion of Honor and a fugitive from justice.

Col. Du Paty de Clam of the war ministry staff, Count Esterhazy's assistant, disgraced.

Lieut.-Col. Henry, head of the secret service, self-confessed forger of Dreyfus letters—a suicide.

Eminent Senator and scientist, M. Scheurer-Krestner, forced to resign the vice-presidency of the Senate because he favored justice for Dreyfus.

Col. Picquart, put in prison because he believed Dreyfus innocent. Still locked up.

Emile Zola, who does not know Dreyfus personally, but took up his case, arrested for libeling the government, fined $600, sentenced to a year's imprisonment. Now in exile in England.

And finally last week M. Le Capitaine, a retired French army officer, who had joined in the persecution of Dreyfus, committed suicide on hearing that the case was to be reopened.

The Court of Cassation has decided that Dreyfus was convicted on false testimony, and has decreed that a new court-martial be authorized to review his case.

Bad management keeps more people in poor circumstances than any other one cause. To be successful one must look ahead and plan ahead so that when a favorable opportunity presents itself he is ready to take advantage of it. A little forethought would also save much expense and valuable time. A prudent and careful man will keep a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in his house, the shiftless fellow will wait until necessity compels it and then ruin his best horse going for a doctor and have a big doctor bill to pay, besides; one pays out 25 cents, the other is out a hundred dollars and then wonders why his neighbor is getting richer while he is getting poorer. For sale by W. Richardson, druggist.

Senator Daniel has written to a friend in Richmond expressing his opinion as to the U. S. internal revenue tobacco tax. He holds that it is a direct tax, therefore it is void because it is not apportioned in accordance with the requirements of the constitution and is violative of common right.

Mr. P. Ketchum of Pike city, Cal., says: "during my brother's late sickness from sciatic rheumatism, Chamberlain's Pain Balm was the only remedy that gave him any relief." Many others have testified to the prompt relief from pain which this liniment affords. For sale by W. Richardson, druggist.

The Appetite of a Goat

Is envied by all poor dyspeptics whose Stomach and Liver are out of order. All such should know that Dr. King's New Life Pills, the wonderful Stomach and Liver Remedy, gives a splendid appetite, sound digestion and a regular bodily habit that insures perfect health and great energy. Only 25c at C. W. Blencoe's drugstore.

While at the races last Saturday, says a dispatch from Paris, President Loubet of France had his hat crushed by an irate Frenchman, who came down on it with his cane. The madened fool was roughly handled for his assault.

Educate Your Bowels With Cascarets. Candy Cathartic, cures constipation forever. 10c, 25c. If C. C. C. fail, druggists refund money.
